7. FINANCIAL OPERATIONS

7-4-1. DEFINITIONS

- A. "Research Travel" means travel for groups or individuals for the express purpose of collecting research as approved by a faculty advisor, as well as for an [Honors Thesis, Master's Thesis, or Dissertation] honors thesis, master's thesis, or doctoral dissertation.

7-4-3. MAIN PROVISIONS

- L. The ASNMSU Senate shall make appropriations for Research Travel according to the following procedures:

4. The Senate shall appropriate no more than one thousand five hundred dollars ($1,500) per individual for the purposes of research travel in a single appropriation bill.

- a. Research travel appropriations for research relating to an honors thesis, master's thesis, or doctoral dissertation shall not count against the cap established in 7-4-3-L-4.

Currently, Research Travel must be connected to an honors thesis, master's thesis, or doctoral dissertation in order to be reimbursed by the ASNMSU Senate. This, in effect, means that the only students who can be reimbursed for research travel are graduate students and honors students. This stipulation disadvantages most undergraduate students who wish to conduct research, such research relating to the NMSU Domenici Institute, the Undergraduate Research & Creative Arts Symposium (URCAS), or who wish to conduct supervised research in any other theater. NMSU is a land-grant university, with research being one of the core functions of the institution. It is imprudent for ASNMSU to stipulate that only graduate and honors students may enjoy the benefit of receiving their students fees reimbursed to them via a senate bill for travel related to one of the core functions of a land-grant institution.
